Designing, developing, and maintaining high-quality Java-based microservices using the Spring Boot framework, with a strong emphasis on scalability, performance, and resilience. Architecting and managing RESTful APIs that power web, mobile, and IoT applications, enabling seamless integration and efficient data exchange across platforms.

Experienced in implementing and optimizing message queue systems (such as RabbitMQ, Kafka, or AWS SQS) to facilitate reliable asynchronous communication between microservices and IoT devices. Skilled in server-side scripting (including Node.js and PowerShell) for automation, monitoring, and integration tasks.

Proficient in integrating third-party APIs, including WhatsApp Business API, to enable automated messaging and notifications within enterprise applications. Adept at working with databases like MongoDB, ensuring efficient data retrieval, storage, and reliability in distributed environments.

Committed to writing clean, maintainable, and modular code, adhering to best practices and coding standards. Strong focus on comprehensive unit and integration testing, collaborating closely with QA teams to enhance application robustness and reliability.
